Email Layout Example

Email Subject Line: Story Title by Author Name for Anthology Name

Dear Editor, (all emails are addressed this way)

Author Introduction. This is where you introduce yourself to the DSP team about your writing/reading passion and why your story would be a good fit for the anthology you're submitting to.

Submission Word Count. This applies to all DSP anthologies. We do not need line count.

Summary/Query. This is where the summary or query of the story goes. Some authors give the elevator pitch while others outline all of the major events within the story. Either are acceptable for anthologies.

Author Biography. DSP guidelines are strict. We need your author biography to be in Third Person of 100-130 words. This is to keep the biographies within the anthologies looking aesthetically pleasing and on a single page.

Author Contact Information. Here you will ensure we have all of your contact information (mailing address, phone number, email address). Real name vs. pen name (even if it is the same as your real name). This information is kept confidential.

Social Media Links. All authors must have at least one social media link with their author name in order to promote. It takes seconds to create one. A Facebook account is mandatory for communicating with fellow authors. NOTE: Author Name @ Social Media is not a link. Our team needs to copy/paste the full link for marketing.

Email Sign-Off. Author chooses which sign-off they prefer. Regards, Sincerely, etc.

Name. The name the author prefers to be addressed by, including honorifics (Mr, Ms, Mx, etc).

Email. Contact email address again for reference.

NOTES:

Never place the story within the body of the email. It always needs to be in an attachment with the file name matching your email subject line. Otherwise, we receive a file document with the name of a story with no author and no anthology.
